

Cancer Pain, Male, 67

The Person & Complaint

This 67-year-old male is my dad. He was diagnosed with an aggressive rectal stage 3 cancerous tumor that was extremely painful. Due to getting covid and not being able to get in for his colonoscopy his diagnosis was pushed out 3 extra weeks and each week his tumor got progressively bigger. After his diagnosis it took another 5 weeks to get started on chemotherapy. He was easily in pain that was a 10 on the pain scale most of the time. He was finally able to get some relief from taking morphine and Tylenol around the clock. He had 11 lymph nodes also affected. The cancer was not in his liver or lungs which made the cancer treatable.

The Story & Emotions

My dad is a farmer and bus driver. Prior to his diagnosis he had been working long hard days trying to make sure everything got done at his cattle farm. He was under a lot of pressure to not lose a ton of money again farming which weighed very heavily on him. He owed family members money and that was also stressing him out. There was also constant drama within the family. He has seven grown daughters. One of his daughters has borderline personality disorder/Asperger's and can be very mean and hurtful to him and other family members. One of his other daughters is in an emotionally abusive marriage. He is holding on to a lot of fear, financial stress, and relationship stress.

The Energetic System

Client has closed base, hod, and sacral down from a constant fear and stress he lives in. The sacral (which is right where the tumor sits in his rectum) is very tight from the financial stress he is under as well as the constant family drama. He is a very emotionally sensitive guy who has never had a great opportunity to explore his emotions. He is very religious so he prays for help rather than noticing how he can play a role in his own healing. His heart is also very tight. His governing channel is also blocked.

Session 1

To start I opened his base and relaxed his heart. I then got some flow from base to kidney gate. I then did withdrawal to the tumor area. I finished with getting his belly button to kidney gate moving so that he wouldn't be so constipated. He felt like he could never fully clear his colon and that put pressure on the tumor. This treatment got him completely out of pain for 4 hours and got his bowels moving which relieved a lot of the discomfort.

Session 2

I started with belly button to hod to help relieve the pressure in his bowels and get things moving. He then wanted me to go to the tumor area because that felt so good the last time. I put my hand over the sacral area and did resonance (not withdrawal this time) and connected it to the navel center. This treatment got him completely out of pain for 6 hours and got his bowels moving.

Session 3

I treated his tumor area with resonance and connected it to his belly button and navel. I also treated the large intestine trajectory points to get his colon working so that he could tolerate another scope the next day. This was very effective and got results immediately. This treatment lasted about 8 hours of being pain free. I later learned from my mom that he was starting to have trouble urinating about 2 days prior to this session and after this session all of those issues went away.

Session 4

I treated his tumor area the entire session because the pain was getting worse. He again got about 8 hours of being pain free. He then had a scan that showed his tumor had doubled in size over the course of two weeks.

Session 5

I decided to only treat the tumor with withdrawal after learning of the scan results. Withdrawal felt like I was pulling out molasses. I treated the area until I had a clear flow in the entire area. He was pain free for about 12 hours and slept really well.

Session 6

I again treated his tumor area with withdrawal and stopped after I felt a clear and consistent flow. He was pain free for about 18 hours after this treatment.

Session 7

I treated the tumor area with withdrawal and got a flow. Due to some stress this only lasted about 6 hours.

Session 8

He had an ostomy surgery a few days before this treatment so he has felt relief from the bowels not being so backed up, but having some new postsurgical pain in the stomach and ostomy area. I treated the pain area and his stomach organ and got a movement going between his belly button and hod. Lastly, I did withdrawal on his tumor area. It did not take long to clear the energy in that area. He felt pain free for about 12 hours and his pain level was a lot lower after this treatment.

Session 9

I treated his tumor with withdrawal and did more work direct work to his ostomy site. After this treatment he started chemo. He was pain free for about 16 hours.

A day before starting chemo he passed a small amount of necrotic tumor tissue in his bowels. Within 2 hours of starting chemotherapy he passed a massive amount of tumor and had 2 more episodes of passing necrotic tumor tissue that day and didn't experience any more tumor pain. The doctors had warned him it would probably take 4 weeks of being on chemo before he would get any or limited relief from the tumor pain. Within hours of his first round of chemo he was pain free.
