

Case 2: Nose bleeds

The Person & Complaint

- A six years old girl was presented with frequent nose bleeds for no reasons.
- She had been suffering nose bleeds since she was three years old and was getting worse. Her nose bleeding episode was at its worst when she came to see me. She literally bled every morning and suffered four to five episodes of nose bleeds per day. The increase frequency worried her parents very much and her doctor has no answer to it apart from first aid treatment
- She had poor appetite and she was small in size for her age . She had fairly weak conformation and did not enjoy physical routine.

The Story and Emotion

She had poor appetite and was physically not agile and weak in her conformation . She was classified petite for her age . She was not active and was physically impaired compare to kids her age.

The Energetic System

The bleeding indicated a blockage in the spleen meridian .The spleen energy supports blood flow in the circulatory systems and lymphs flow in the lymphatic system It holds organs in place and governs weakness of muscles. The fact that she demonstrates poor appetite and weakness gave clues to a blockage of energy in the spleen meridian

Treatment

First Session.

While she was asleep, SP1 was open up for about 20-30 minutes. The next day , to her parent's surprise her nose bleed stopped. She also improved her appetite and ate more than she usually did. She was free of bleeding for three to four weeks since the first session. She did bled at times but very minor and it stopped quickly compared to before treatment.

Second Session

She was again treated on Sp1 this time but bilaterally and for 20-30 minutes until her spleen channel was open fully. Following that, she was bled free for three to four months after the second session. Her appetite continued to improve and she was putting on weight and growing taller.

Third Session

Due to the startling improvement, she was finally treated bilaterally on SP1 off to her spleen organ on for 15 to 20 minutes to clear the congestion of spleen energy. Following that treatment, she now is free of nose bleeds. She maintains her good appetite and is a much happier and confident girl at school.
